

Now more than ever, we need to have access to many different opinions and sources of information. As an international law professor, I know how important it is that my students also have such access so as to stay best informed about global events, to be informed citizens and to stay competitive as lawyers.